

of a very sweet temper, yet had great resolution. As there was at this time a vacancy for one in his school, Mrs. Newsted had no sooner determined to send her son, than she put her design in practice.

She went with him, and after the first ceremonies were over, I have brought you, Sir, said she, a child, who (I am sorry to say it) is in great want of amend-

The Mother's Gift. amendment: I have untried every mild method provement at his book, behaviour, and I must in-that if he be not more you than he has been to you punish him as you do ty boys. I trust him entire management, and when me a pleasing account of good behaviour, I shall him with the utmost plea-then I do not wish to see

Mrs. Newsted then to-and as soon as she wa Teachum said to mark
What a shocking characte of you, child! Did not give up her time and att and what was her end make you good; to ma
py; to render you belo